Why Romania?

Labour costs and taxation

Romanian labour costs are among the lowest in European countries (Fig. 16). The minimum gross salary is determined by law and as of January 2023 it was €606. This value is determined according to a normal working programme with an average of 165.333 working hours per month. In common practice the hourly cost isn't used in negotiations or job offers. With regards to publicly announcing the salary benefits there are no mandatory regulations. Employers can opt in publishing this detail or not.

Why Romania?

Labour taxation impacts both employer and employee (Fig. 17). The structure of the taxation is as follows:

Employees that work in IT&C sectors and research & development are exempted from the income tax.

Romania has one of the lowest taxation levels in the European Union (Fig. 18). The most important tax categories in Romania are:

- Corporate income tax
- VAT
- Turnover tax rates for micro-enterprises
- Personal income tax

The National Resilience and Recovery Plan (PNRR)

The European Union has decided to set up a temporary financial instrument - #NextGenerationEU, worth €750bn, separate from the EU's long-term budget, the Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF), for the period 2021-2027. Its main purpose is to provide support to member states to meet the challenges posed by the Covid-19 crisis and its economic consequences. The Recovery and Resilience Mechanism (RRM) is the mainstay of #NextGenerationEU and has a total budget of €672.5bn.

The purpose of the RRM is to provide support for key investments and reforms for sustainable recovery and for improving the economic and social resilience of EU member states. At the end of the investment period, European economies and societies will be better prepared for the challenges and opportunities of green and digital transitions (Ministry of European Investment and Projects, 2021).

Romania would receive 14.248bn in the form of a grant and approximately 14.935bn in the form of loans for a total of 29.2bn euros. The rule set out in the proposal for Regulation (still being negotiated at European level) is that 70% of grants be committed by the end of 2022. The deadline for differentiated access to 30% of grants being 31 December 2023. In addition, payments for projects to be included in national recovery and resilience programs must be completed by December 2026 (Source: Ministry of European Investment and Projects).
